Traps for Appellate Out-of-Towners: Differences Among Neighboring State Appellate Practices (West Coast Edition)

This program is the first in a series that will cover the differences in appellate practice in neighboring states across the country.

There may be significant differences among appellate practice even in neighboring states. This program will highlight and flag those differences for the benefit of appellate practitioners who venture across state lines. Tips for appellate practice in California, Arizona and Nevada will be provided. At the end of the program, attendees will:

- Understand the key differences between appellate practice in California, Arizona and Nevada.
- Learn “what not to do” in each appellate jurisdiction that will identify the practitioner as an “out-of-towner”.
- Gain useful information and contacts for future reference in each appellate jurisdiction.
